FEATURES & FOR & THE & HOME & GIRL

HARMING FROCKS for the GIRL'S GRADUATION DAY feast the eyes upon, but this year she sons' costumes all seem made especially to strikingly new ideas. Bias or straight accentuate all her girlish grace and charm, folds of silk or messaline on bodice and usting class will a pale colored frock be When the popular surplice is carried out seen, but color is the exception, not the the material is generally edged about the

Since it must serve as party frock through the summer, however, a separate widths.

For a girl whose figure is not sufficiently basted on when the effect of a colored frill being basted into the lining across rather than an all white costume is desired. For young girls there is, however, never anything so charming as the white gown, still the girl who dresses throughout the whole sommer in unrelieved white

The veriety of materials from which to wear this goon must be given after the zally planned. It should be remembered a choosing the model and the material for the commencement frock that it is es pentially a graduation and not a coming the simulicity of effect the more appro texture is better than chiffon or silk, and there should be only sufficient trimming to amount of hand tucking, shirring and sof folds of silk is more attractive than masses of course trimming, and just a little real or good quality of imitation lace is better than countless yards of cheape

OHE, both the mexpensive cotton quality and the more costly grade known as voile de soie and marquisette, is charming for the gradua tion frock if it is desired to have this gown do service for more or less formal wear later on. The dress can be made with a shirred or gathered guimpe of ner or mousseline de soie, which can be basted in for commencement day and the gown worn without it for dances and dinner during the summer. A young girl, even a staid college graduate, before she has made her formal debut, is not expected to be gowned in costly fashion during the first summer after she has left school or university, and a simple voile frock bought at graduation time will do nicely for any party or "prom" for three months

Some of the new voile gowns are the bust A sailor collar of lace or emtrimmed with simple braiding in silk sou- broidery put on somewhat as a tichu, the tache. Embroidered voiles are much in ends reaching down to the belt, opening evidence, and the popular trimming of away from a guimpe or vest of shirred lawn or mousseline de soie and lace comthe moment, the new china beadwork, is bined, makes a pretty trimming, and the also delightfully effective upon the voiles, sailor collar is always to be advocated

If she can spare the time at this busy style to be becoming.

Fichus are decidedly a feature of the dress with a foundation of plain lawn or dresses. And, as said above, for a young tending under the chin and half way up injuring them.

N her soft gown of clinging white the TV STRAIGHT band of soft silk or sweet girl graduate is ever a sight to Asatin finishing a skirt of softly shirred voile is a favorite, and though this will be especially charming, for the idea had its origin as long ago as last sumfashionable materials of the moment mer the vogue did not take quickly, and so and the fashionable lines of the sea- is as popular just now as any of the more Occasionally in a school or college grad- skirt are seen on most of the voile frocks. rule, and there is little question but that lace vest with a fold about two or three the all white frock is the most attractive, inches wide, and on the one gown there colored slip may be made to wear under slender for the popular fichu surplice lines neath the white dress to alter its appear- are excellent, as the long draping of the ance and give the effect of greater variety uniterial over the bust gives an effect of slenderness and also tends to lengthen the waist line. A surplice is also becoming Colored sashes should also be provided. to the most slim, girlish figure, for whom, and some of the voile gowns are even instead of drawing the material tightly made with two or three sets of different down from the shoulder, the fabric should folds trimming skirt and bodice, to be be caught in loosely, with a full guimpe both the white and these of solid colors. for those who are sufficiently thin for the season, with all its manifold winding up season's fashious, and among the young exercises and club meetings, a girl could girls' frocks, to whom the added width easily work her own gown in an attract thus given across the shoulders is exceptive headed pattern, for this embroidery tionally becoming, there is no prettier mode of trimming the bodice. The fichu can be done very quickly. However, it is of the present time is quite narrow, and fortunately not too expensive for the av- must be made of the very sheerest macrage purse. Pearl beads or bands of terial, preferably net or organdie. An age." bended net trimming and satin under- organic fichu can be put on with a gown The April Grandmother's second young- tion of the blood and will prevent the and more delicate than when half buried others, but can be this spring, seem to have wen renewed favor, and junic skirts are, if anything, in is finished off directly in the front of the majority. For a growing girl a tunic affords a splendid means of lengthening last year's frock or of making a gown that shows signs of fading or wear look as if fresh from the dressmaker's by plactors are if anything, in the first of the face will sag, and instead of the reform that is just about as sensible as that is one of her sins against diet—put-clearly defined curve from the base of the that of placing a lock on a stable door t stead of a silk or satin girdle and a band finished about the neck with a six to eight inch round bertha recall distinct! the fashions in vogue just seven years ago, but the marrow skirt and the seamless sleeve dissipate any idea that this gown might have been one found put away in an attle-trunk and just discovered during the spring cleaning. Narare the rule of the season for young and be remembered. old, and straights though not necessarily gandie, dotted swiss, net and lawn-are of shirring or cording about the waist inwith thin flounce of tucks and lace in and drape readily for tunic or fichu. place of any more solid foundation, Voile cially necessary to have hang perfectly and fit with glovelike smoothness about the walst and hips, must not be put on the walst and hips, must not be put on of cool lawn and batiste. &c., will have tive charm.

Poke bounct and springed mustin, face, sunbonnet shapes the skirt cut reaching just to the tip of the skirt cut reaching just to the skirt cut reaching ju over a well made princess alip of taffeta, the pump.

ation frock if a sufficiently soft net is bought. This year there must be nothing row shoulder line and scamless sleeve stiff about the lines of the dress, it must creed without regard to the age of the now made with astonishingly little stiffness, and the very materials which at a To make the skirt hang without flare former day were chosen because of their many crepe de Chine and foulard gowns have linings, of lawn or mousseline de sole, because, made with some different process, or even chiffon finished like any petticont, they take naturally clinging, soft lines some thickness, and taffets or, better, messaline is advised for both cotton voile for the gown of the younger sister who has been saline in a special particular of the gown of the younger sister who has been considered by the way, can be washed as has yet a year or two before she can be and this is as true if not more essential bers of the graduating class will in most that all girls be instructed in the knowly water, is put on for thin white gowns as for those of heav- cases have their gowns just touch the edge of fine sewing. A graduation dress, which it is espe-ground all around. The more elaborate Many girls make their own lingeric col-china silk or lawn, provided it is not attached directly to a fitted foundation.

The collarless yokes which are a feature of all dress costumes for young people this Nets are smart again this summer, and summer are cut with very good line at for a commencement frock there is a blouse at the base of the neck if these are that is charming for the purpose. This net has a foundation of messaline, the net, finished with a fold of silk, being put on as an overskirt. The bodice is formed half of a deep draped girdle with a silk and a silk and a short three next is short three next in the next is short three next in the next is short three next in the next if these are unbecomingly prominent and just low enough to look and feel comfortably and attractively cool. For a graduation freek in the next in the n of a deep draped girdle with a silk edged library about the shoulders. A collarless reimpe of shired manual and a collarless Taffers and her of the simplest models. Deep berthas of lace or mousseline guimpe of shirred mousseline makes this described and messaline are about equally popular for the belt for the thin white on many of the party frocks. Rows not is also extremely pretty for a gradulation of the party frocks. Rows not is also extremely pretty for a gradulation of the belt for the thin white frocks. Girdles with long such ends are appearing among the latest models, but ing. The belt should be about three streamers not more than twelve inches at inches wide and placed high upon the most will, as a rule, be found most becom-bodice, with suggestion of Empire line.

manner in which it

easily as any other cotton fabric-and the proud recipient of a pigskin diploma. Classes for instruction in all descriptions or lace of the old bat, which has been marquisette. Every dress of the present None of the undergraduates this year will of embroidery and fancy work are fash- freshly laundered and made a little crisp day demands its own petticoat or lining, have trains on their gowns, but the mem- lionable, and now it is considered essential by a dip into starch again in much the

A graduation dress, which it is espe-cially necessary to have hang perfectly little sweep of train, but the majority of summer, hats—and dainty and attractive ingly the hat of a taffeta, silk are all employed for this style are fascinating if of millinery, and they are becoming, when worn with yet there are some the summer frocks girls who cannot of muslin and silk went this style of give a finish to the hat at all, and for costume that is far them there are any smarter than aux number of attrac-

Quaint and old sailor hats. Sailor shapes are to be exfashioned, but most premely smart this summer, and the new becoming dif be sailor frames have quite small, flat coming at all) is a crowns and no great width of brim. It shape somewhat on is not always easy to find a frame that the sunbonnet or its just correct in line, but with a little der, with many rows of shirring, and single practice and a little courage, too, at first, pansies that are faid flat against the hat one soon becomes proficient at making

Here is a most fascingting flowered unnecessary rim of the wire, muslin hat. This can also be of lace Open English embroiders is very smart if so desired, with high wired crown at present, and as this embroiders can on the mob cap order. Around the crown be worked rapidly the girl who would light blue taffeta "If this balter is properly constructed since. A face above a very low collar This style is not see and adjusted, it will not impede circula- or a low cut neck always looks smaller youthful as the

broidered batiste

these oid lists out, and the elaborate frocks by a quick and the elaborate frocks by a quick changing of the trimming when the gows is wanted for the 1911. A new frame fashioned of the same material as that can be begght, or a from which the dress is made. It is only really clover girl pecessary to order a small amount extra can now make her of lace lawn when buying a dress length own frame, since and its triumings, and then, with the all winter a class adorning dress and hat alike-well, th Lace that with five silk and Plot Roses, in smatter millinery effect is quite sure to be satisfactory.

ON'T allow your checks to sag equally broad silken elastic extending to overplump checks should face the situation bravely and resolve not to cheat the temples, where begin the ribbons to bravely and resolve not to cheat the temples, where begin the ribbons to bravely and resolve not to cheat the major of the bead.

"If this halter is properly constructed ance. A face above a very low collar This style is not see the sides of the cheeks, there joining as "Girls who are conscious of possessing physical attribute of the refined woman."

beaded net trimming and satin underskirt show charmingly through a voile de skirt show charmingly through a voile de sole or marquisefte overdress, or again the foundation will be quite plain, the trimming all adorming the tunics.

Tunics rather than going out of fashion this spring, seem to have won renewed
this spring, seem to have won renewed the spring seem to have won renewed to sole or even soft silk as readily as of voile or even soft silk as readily as est granddaughter turned a pair of rest grand aughter t as if fresh from the dressmaker's by plac- crossed over in front like a surplice, with taut is to rub the face upward when ing on the edge of the whaleboned neck- may seem unjust," concluded the April ing over the old dress a tunic or chiffon the cads formed into a sash in back, drying it, but if the face is inclined to wear is affected in the same way as is Grandmother, observing the dejected exof voile of a bright, becoming shade in the ends are caught into the belt a be exceedingly full the weight of the throat which for years has been torpression of her second granddaughter's flesh will show such a tendency to sag tured with high stocks. But as withered face as she pushed a box of candy be the short of the short of the short of the short of the same way as is transmitted. One of the same way as is transmitted, observed the short of the same way as is transmitted, observed the same way as is transmitted, observed the same way as is transmitted. Among the models for graduation frocks hang over the skirt to within a few inches over the sides of the jaws that it should looking, discolored cheeks are far more youd easy reach of her fingers, "it is one there are tunic dresses even in the wash of the kness. Fichus are seen this year be restrained by some artificial means, difficult to rejuvenate than a throat, and of nature's peculiarities. Therefore the fabrics, embroidered ingeric gowns being on the most claborate frocks of creps de worn only while sleeping. The best of will require a long and patient treatment best we can do is to keep careful watch fabrica, embroidered lingeric gowns being on the most classification of the cheeks lest we frequently put together in the form of oversimplest of morning and afternoon ing of a two luch wide satia ribbon exling creams, the better plan is to avoid rob ourselves of the clear cut profile from party. forget - me - nots and 4/ maidenhair forn reim Shirred lace tive shapes to choose from among the flat the high crown lower and taking off an the more elaborate a simple waist and skirt for morning wear a large flat bowknot of satin matchwith such infinite care just a few years ago. Hunt there is a few ling the big ribbon bow at the throat is ever a pretty way of trimming a simple lingerie but. Perhaps the same but can be used to the care that the care is a simple to the care that the care is a simple to the care that the care t be made to do service with both the simple lingerie bonnet of Most attractive is it to have the hat